BEAT WARRENSBURG!

College Bearcats Defeated by Park

Extra Five Minutes Play Gives Interesting Game to Visitors
—Score 20-13.

The College Bear Cats lost one of the hardest fought games of the season last Tuesday evening in the College gym to Park College. The score was 20 to 13 but it is not indicative of the style of play. The game was fast and snappy thruout and some very good basket ball was played.

At the end of the first half the score was 10 to 3 in favor of the home team but in the second period the Bear Cats seemed unable to cage the ball. Time and again it hit the basket, only to roll off. The visitors were luckier and they caged four field goals and one free throw so that when there was only about 10 seconds to play they were two points to the good. In the last second of play York shot a goal and tied the score.

After much argument it was decided to play an extra five minute period. With the score 12 to 12 the visitors succeeded in dropping in four goals and as Maryville made only one point from a free throw the game ended with the score 20 to 13 in favor of Park.

For the Bear Cats Turner played the stellar game and as usual Kidney, Kirby and Wells did more than their share.

For the visitors, Kirkpatrick was the star. He made all but two of Park's points.

Yehle of Maryville refereed the game.

The school gave the team excellent support, the yelling being superior to any ever heard on this court.

Miss Minnie James entertained Saturday evening, Jan. 29 at the home of Mrs. T. L. Wadley on South Buchanan in honor of her sister Miss Lillian James of St. Joseph. Refreshments of ice-cream and cake were served. The guests were: Miss Winn, Miss MacLeod, Miss Margaret James, Miss Lucile Alry, Miss Ruth Motter, Mrs. T. L. Wadley, and Miss Lillian James.

Courier Publishes Some Poetry Written by Juanita Miller, a Freshman.

Juanita Miller, of Burlington Junction, a freshman in S. T. C. has written some very good poems and the following two she has submitted to the Courier for publication.

The Angelus

Hark! A sweet sound strikes the ear,
Thrice the bell taps, low but clear
List to what it seems to say,
"Cease thy labors, come and pray!"
Thrice again the silv'ry notes
Ring, as tho the angel's throats
Voiced them, listen, hear them say
"Cease thy labors, come and pray!"
Hark! again the soft notes steal
Thru the air; mark their appeal!
Hear their pleading as they say,
"Cease thy labors, come and pray!"
As the bell sounds thru the air
Priests and peasants kneel in prayer
List'ning to its sweet tones say,
"Cease thy labors, come and pray!"

Evening Chimes

Hear the mellow, soft chimes pealing
Just at dusk
To a restless world, peace dealing,
Hearken, now the music, stealing,
From the bells that now are pealing,
Just at dusk
Are so fraught with tender reeling,
Just at dusk
Listen to the soft bells chiming
Just at dusk
Note their clear and perfect timing
Just at dusk
How each silvry, soft sound rhyming,
In its sweetness keeps on climbing,
Till it dies away in pining,
Just at dusk

The Courier wishes to thank Marvis Baldwin, of Fort Valley, Georgia, for his recent subscription to the paper and also for the compliment which he gave us. Marvis is the twelve year old nephew of Miss Margaret James, and recently Miss James sent him a copy of our paper and also, one of the local dailies. Marvis has written a note of instruction to his aunt and we hope he will not mind if we publish it. The note is as follows: "I have twenty-five cents to spare and I wish you would please subscribe for the Green and White Courier for Seniors-Sophomores To Be Hosts at Colonial Costume Party February 22.

The juniors, freshmen and the faculty have received an invitation from the seniors and sophomores for the Washington birthday party which is one of the oldest traditions of the school. The time is Feb. 22 at 8:30 p. m.

This year the committee is planning strictly a colonial party therefore everyone should be planning his costume. The girls of the classes will assist any boy who needs help in the matter and any one who wishes advice about costuming may consult the sponsors of the senior and sophomore classes, Miss MacLeod, Miss Winn, Miss Dow and Miss Brunner.

As the committees are making rather elaborate plans, they wish to know approximately how many guests to expect. If you did not get your name on the list last Friday, see your sponsor at once and have your name turned in.

Every college student and faculty member should help uphold this tradition of the college. Those who do not will miss one of the most enjoyable social functions of the year.

Miss Anthony Speaks to Rural Teachers.

Miss Hettie Anthony addressed a conference of Nodaway County rural teachers at Maryville, Jan. 29. Her subject was "The Home Budget System."

This subject is a part of the work outlined in the Vitalized Agricultural course. Miss Anthony explained some practical applications of the subject. Among these were: Each pupil make a division of the household budget and compare this division with the standard; pupils make divisions of the budget for the different incomes; the clothing budget as an individual problem; the use of posters showing typical divisions of the income; the use of thrift bulletins and the use of material circulated by banks and commercial corporations on the budget system.

Miss Geneva Wilfley went to St. Joseph, Thursday afternoon Jan. 27, to attend the Anna Case recital Thursday night.

Bearcats Win Two Games Last Week

Culver-Stockton and Missouri Wesleyan Fall Victims to State Teachers College.

The Bear Cats won both of the games played on their trip last weekend. The first, played with Missouri Wesleyan at Cameron Thursday night ended with the score 16 to 12; and the second, the following evening with Culver-Stockton at Canton, found the score 17 to 14 when the whistle blew. Both games were fast and scrappy and were not won until the very last. In the Cameron game Kidney played stellar ball but in the game at Canton it was almost impossible to distinguish who was the shining star.

Coach Rice played practically a straight line-up, using substitutes only in the last few minutes.

The team commended especially the treatment received at both places. Both schools are fine sports and good losers. Those are the kind of people the Bear Cats like to mix with.

The following men took the trip: Kirby, Houchens, Kidney, Turner, Sawyers, York and Wells.

Warrensburg plays here Friday. They defeated us on their home court. Can they do it again? Let's support the team some more. Let's make them beat Warrensburg. We need the victory, they need the defeat. Let's give it to them. Are you going to do your bit? If you do and do it well we will win. You can support the team—Do it again—BEAT WARRENSBURG.

Sunday Band Concerts Begin.

The Sunday afternoon concert given by the Maryville Concert Band was well received and appreciated by the audience. These programs are well worth while. The next concert will be given Sunday afternoon, Feb. 13. You will regret it if you do not attend.

Miss Geneva Wilfley went to St. Joseph, Thursday afternoon Jan. 27, to attend the Anna Case recital Thursday night.

Departmental Notes

Music

The second rehearsal of the children's department under the supervision of Miss Geneva Wilfley was given Saturday morning Jan. 29, at the Conservatory. Those taking part in the rehearsal were: Arthur Brewer, Gladys Bartram, Emma Ruth Bellows, George McMurtry, Ruth Hughes, Clyde Gibson, Jimmie and Mary Jackson, Virginia Larmer, Robert Eversole, Katie Halley, Doris Snodgrass, Mildred Tebow, Bohm Townsend, Doris Walker, Raymond Cohn, Lucile Snyder, Harriet Miller, Genieve Miller, and Gertrude Curfman.

Others in the class who did not take part, were present at the rehearsal.

The Boy's Glee Club just recently organized, met Monday evening Jan. 31, at the Conservatory. They report a good practice and are much pleased with the work. They hope that many others will decide to join them.

Manual Arts.

A chart showing the complete organization of the Manual Arts department will be placed on the bulletin board outside Mr. Glenn's office door. Thumb tacks of different colors will designate the courses in operation, those to be offered next quarter, and the instructor of each class. A schedule of next quarters work is on the board and students will please sign up for their choice of hours. Those interested in Home Mechanics will please sign also.

The contract has been let for the new drawing tables and they will be here for use next quarter.

Public Speaking

The debating class argued the question Monday morning Jan. 31 which is scheduled for the inter-collegiate debate, to be held at Cameron, Mo. April 8. The question is in regard to the establishment of a permanent court of compulsory arbitration, and has previously been stated. The decision was for the affirmative which position was held by Edgar Hall and Chas. Elmore. Those on the negative were John Phipps and Jessie Boatman.

Education

The Methods class is working out methods for the intermediate grades for geography and history thru a series of problems showing the close relation between geography and history.

The penmanship class in methods observed the work as taught in each grade and the progress that should be made from one grade to another, last week in the Demonstration school.

Science

The class in Biology 11, has been interested during the last week in observing various sorts of organisms that are denizens of the microscopic world. Our greatest enemies, germ life, are stealthily lurking on every hand to catch us unarmed with good health. However most of these organisms are harmless, many are useful. The mythical one-eyed cyclops can be seen with the naked eye if one will strain a quantity of our city water. This is also harmless except for the psychological wiggle it gives ones stomach.

Several records of bird songs have been received by Mr. Leeson. They will be used in making the students better acquainted with our feathered-folk.

Home Economics

The high school sewing class is doing some excellent work in the construction of under-garments.

Among the points considered in the making of the garment are: suitability of material and trimming; quality and amount of material; cost of material; selection of pattern; and proper construction. After completion, the cost of the garment is computed including the cost of labor involved.

ViJune Colden, assistant in home economics is teaching the class and is conducting the work very successfully.

The foods class in batters and doughs has taken up the making of different varieties of cake. Typical butter and sponge cakes have been made. After baking, the cakes are scored by each member of the class. The points considered are texture, flavor and lightness, baking and general appearance.

Agriculture

The class in Farm Crops has been judging corn that was grown on the school farm and it was found that there would be approximately forty bushels of good seed corn available for spring planting. Wheat judging will be taken up next by this class.

A freak of nature in the form of nine ears of corn produced by one shoot, all connected at their base with one large ear forming the center and the other clustered around it, was presented by Mr. Thompson of the student body to the agriculture department, where it may be seen at any time.

Soy Beans, of varieties adapted to this locality and grown at the school farm are ready for delivery to farmers of this vicinity for spring planting.

Iva Lape was unable to attend school Feb. 1-3 because of a severe case of tonsillitis.

Miss Minnie James returned to school, Jan 23 after a few days absence because of her mothers' illness.

Vera Hughes who is now teaching at Oregon, is thinking of entering the summer quarter hoping to finish her degree course then.

Pearl Griffith was in Conway, Ia., Jan. 28-31 with friends.

Mr. Foster was absent from school Friday afternoon, Jan. 26, on account of illness.

Class Studies Sulphur Mining

The class in General Chemistry last week had an interesting study of sulphur and the process by which it is mined. The largest deposit of sulphur in the world is in Louisiana while there are other large deposits on the coastal plains of Texas. Most of the sulphur mined from these deposits is 99.5 per cent pure.

The sulphur deposits of Louisiana and Texas are geologically associated with the dome foundations, which are a feature of the coastal plains extending thru the State of Louisiana and Texas. At the domes which are now being mined for sulphur the sulphur lies at a depth of between 600 and 1,100 feet. The overburden consists of clays, sands, quick sands and gravels, and a comparatively small layer of a soft limestone. The average thickness of the sulphur was worked out by Herman Frasch during the years 1892 and 1902.

The Frasch process involves introducing superheated water into the sulphur beds, thru a pipe extending thru the quicksand, at a temperature at or above the melting point of sulphur (115 degrees C) and then raising the molten sulphur thru another pipe to the surface by compressed air. The molten sulphur is then conducted into bins where it solidifies. The wells are 10 to 12 inches in diameter and contain three strings of concentric pipes. In the outer annular space the hot water at a temperature of about 175 degrees C is forced down under a pressure of 250 pounds per square inch is admitted. The hot water leaves the outer pipe at several points above the bottom of the pipe and enters the sulphur bearing formation which it thoroughly heats. Additional quantities of water, which is constantly forced in, melt the sulphur which sinks to the bottom of the sulphur bed. Hot compressed air is forced down the inner pipe, issues from the bottom of the pipe and flows up thru the intermediate annular space between the air pipe and the second pipe. As the liquid sulphur is lifted to the surface by the ascending air, a proper balance must be kept between the pressure of the superheated water, and the air pressure to insure an uninterrupted flow of sulphur to the surface. On reaching the surface the sulphur is conducted thru a pipe to a bin in which it solidifies. There are a series of bins about 150 feet by 250 feet by 65 feet high.

The sulphur mines in the United States supplied by far the greatest portion of sulphur for the Allies. Immense quantities of it was used in the preparation of sulphuric acid which in turn was used in making explosives.

A Little Known College Character

We soon become acquainted with our instructors and others who are in some way connected with the college, but a small per cent of the students ever know Mr. Duncan. This is not due to the personality of Mr. Duncan but because his duties take him apart from the daily haunts of the students.

Mr. Duncan is that pleasant looking man whom we see on the campus driving a team of horses to a big wagon. He is manager of the farming interests of the college.

Fifteen years ago this spring, Mr. Duncan, with about eighteen helpers, began grubbing out trees, and cleaning up the grounds so that the Board of Regents could locate the site for the college building.

Peach and apple trees covered most of the ground between the building and the president's residence. Those were all removed; but the birches and chestnut trees which we all enjoy now, were left untouched. Unsightly ditches were filled up. Today we have our tennis courts where there formerly was a ditch.

Mr. Duncan's reminiscences make us appreciate how valuable he is to us to esteem him as one who has done more than his share to make our campus the place of beauty it is today.

Hessian Fly Control.

Very little if anything can be done in combating the Hessian Fly after the wheat is sown until the following sowing season.

There are three methods that enter in the control of the fly, as follows: (1) Destroying the natural home of the fly; (2) Keeping down the volunteer wheat; (3) Delay seeding until after fly free date.

In order that either of the above methods give best results it is necessary that there be a mutual agreement thruout the community infested to carry out the measures in unison or together, so far as it is practicable.

The natural home of the fly being in the wheat we can detect its presence by examining the base of the plant or stubble where the larvae (called the grub) or the pupae (flax seed stage) will be found between the leaf sheath and the stalk.

These can be destroyed by early and deep plowing and then packing the seed bed to prevent the escape of any of the flies thus buried.

Burning of stubble is not recommended as only a small percent of the fly is destroyed and the stubble is one source of fertilizer which all upland ground needs.

By keeping down volunteer wheat the fly is starved out before it matures, as wheat is about the only plant it feeds on. Also it lessens the area for the adult flies operations.

By experiments it has been found that after certain dates the fly ceases to lay. This date varies in different sections of the state as well as in different states. For the extreme north Missouri the fly free date is after Oct. 1; for Central Missouri, after Oct. 8.

Seeding after fly free date often results in more or less winter killing of wheat but that this loss is much less than the loss thru damage from the fly for the same number of years is the general opinion of those who have had experience in combating the fly.

Winter killing will be lessened by the thorough seed bed preparation necessary in combating the fly.

Early deep plowing might not be possible with the entire community but by adhering to the methods of keeping volunteer wheat down and not seeding until after fly free date the pest can be controlled; but if some fail to co-operate and do their part, thus affording harbor for the fly, they not only prolong the infestation in their fields but adjoining fields become infested in the spring from flies developed in such fields.

Y. W. C. A.

At a regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A., Wednesday, Feb. 2, the following program was given:

Devotions.....Jeannie Blacklock leader
Violin Solo.....Mr. Kutschinski
Vocal SoloMrs. Curl
TalkRev. J. A. Cooper
Rev. Cooper in his remarks to the girls, talked to them as a group of prospective teachers. Among other things, Rev. Cooper said that a teacher must be a Christian and take things as they come and relate them to Christianity. He said that it is a very great thing to shape the ideals of young people and upon the teacher depends the carrying on of Christian principles. "Go ye and teach all nations," applies in terms of numbers to teachers more than to preachers, said Rev. Cooper.

After the program a business meeting was held. In a meeting held Jan. 31 when the cabinet had its luncheon in the Ladies Parlor at 12:00 the devotions were led by Jessie Murphy. The business of the Association was taken up after the luncheon. It was moved and carried that three delegates, Esther Foley, Margaret Remus, and Anna Mae Gillis be sent to the State Student Volunteer Movement Convention. This convention will be held at Columbia, Missouri, Feb. 11, 12, 13. It was included in the motion that these delegates be allowed to name their alternate.

Next the "Hoover Appeal" was discussed. It was moved and carried that the Association put on what shall be called "College Night." The entertainment shall consist of first a banquet served by the Y girls, and then various stunts will be given. Committees were appointed by the president.

All this work of the cabinet was agreed upon by the girls at the weekly meeting.

It was also decided by the girls of the Association to postpone the election of officers for this year from Feb. to May. This action was taken because the present officers are doing such excellent work and have held office for only a short time.

Watch for more particulars concerning "College Night" and begin to make preparations to come and have a good time. Everyone in the school, faculty and students will have part in the fun and will share in aiding a worthy cause, for the proceeds of the night's entertainment will go to save starving children in the Near East.

Last summer a man representing the Victor Talking Machine Company was at S. T. C. demonstrating how the Victrola could be used to sing with. The college students assembled one morning on the front steps to sing America. While thus assembled a photograph was made of the group.

Last week Mr. Colbert received an advertising sheet sent out by the Victrola Company giving some of the pictures and articles that will appear in the Feb. issue of the Educational magazine. One of the cuts to be used is labeled—"Maryville, S. T. C. Singing America with the Victor Machine."

Miss Bain spent the week end Jan. 29-30 in St. Joseph and Kansas City the guest of relatives.

Fayette

The Board of Education has recently received a letter from Supt. Sam A. Baker, who says he has examined the report of the high school inspector and is pleased to retain this high school on the list of first class schools. Mr. Baker thinks that there is an excellent opportunity to introduce music, home economics and vocational agriculture in this school. Also a building which can be used for a gymnasium and for different kind of school activities would be a progressive movement for Fayette according to Mr. Baker.

The freshmen held a Bazar shortly before Christmas and cleared about seventy dollars which will go towards completing the payments on the gymnasium floor.

Children are Being Examined.

Dr. Hobbs is examining the children of the demonstration school every day to prevent any epidemic from breaking out in school.

He is also examining the children as a demonstration for the Methods classes, showing them how to conduct examinations of children for minor defects, such as those of eyes and throat.

Teachers are expected not only to make physical examinations and prescribe for children but their inspection is for the purpose of detecting minor troubles and for the prevention of diseases and establishment of health habits.

Norty Liley has resigned his position as Supt. of the Craig school to take up the work as County Superintendent of Holt County. Mrs. Alberta G. Murphy gave up her position as County Superintendent on account of ill health and has gone South in hopes of benefiting her condition.

The Eurekans are going to try hard to uphold the traditions which have been established by Eurekan heroes of the past.

A debate has been arranged for next week. Tell yourself and your friends to come.

Assembly Notes

The members of the "M" club did not put on the assembly program as planned but have postponed it to some later date.

After the playing of two selections by the orchestra several songs were sung by the school.

Mr. Swinehart announced the assembly programs scheduled for the rest of the term.

Mr. Colbert informed us of the value of mathematics; and emphasized the value of seeing the good pictures which will be on display at the college next week. He also gave us the secret of how to obtain excess work next quarter. It is necessary to obtain twenty honor points to carry excess work. A grade of M gives two and one-half points, and one of S gives five points and E seven and one-half points provided the course taken is a two and one-half hour course.

Fred Conner, former student of S. T. C. and later student of Missouri University has given up his Collegiate work and is in business at Maitland.

THE GREEN AND WHITE COURIER

The Stroller.

The Stroller was walking down the corridor behind Mary Carpenter and Jesse Boatman and was not really paying much attention to them but she did hear Mary ask this startling question:

"You say you like my eyes, what do you think of my mouth?"

Jesse: "Well, taking it as a whole"—

In the good old days gone by when Leston used to sit beside Lucile in the library, the Stroller always enjoyed listening to their chatter. One day Leston said:

"Does your fountain pen leak all the time?"

Lucile gave him a sweet smile and answered, "No, just when I have ink in it."

Charles Elmore has all the ear marks of a great musician; why, when he was only three months old he played on the floor.

Pres. Richardson met "Tubby" Wells and Anna Mae in the hall one day when she was wearing a white sweater with a green M on it. The president said, "Joe, I thought you promised not to let a girl wear your sweater?"

"But," protested Joe, "she can beat me arguing."

Why does it sometimes take Edith so long to eat her meals and other times she finishes before any one else? Well, it simply depends upon whether Mike is eating or has eaten.

Why do boys always wink at Eilene Coffey? Is it her hair or her complexion?

The Stroller surely does wish that she had a lover like Grace Messenbaugh's. He gave her a Stutz car for Christmas, so she says.

The boys of the school are planning to form a Maple Due club. If you don't understand, you can't get in.

One girl said, and the Stroller promised not to tell who, that all she thought. Dean Partridge needed to make him handsome was a cake of soap. The Stroller wonders how the same thing would make Paul Miller look.

Luther DeMoss is a fine fellow but it does seem like pretty poor business for him to be going around letting air out of tires that are on autos belonging to the faculty.

Miss MacLeod put a notice on the board for the girls to hang their clothes on the bars in the dressing room. One girl read it hastily and then remarked, "Why in the world does she want us to hang our clothes on the bias?"

The Stroller closes his gossip with this advice to the lovers of our college:

"Romantic young people, remember this, Whenever you're blowing a bubble of bliss, If you blow it too big, not content with its size, Puff—it is gone, and there's soap in your eyes."

Chamber of Commerce and College Unite in Cooperation and Service

Many colleges give their best service to students in the school. Others specialize on their correspondence students while a few devote their time and energy to community work.

The Chamber of Commerce in some cities may stress city improvement, others may devote their time to special work to be accomplished both in the city and out.

Every city cannot have a college and many do not have a Chamber of Commerce. Fortunate, indeed, is the city that contains a live working energetic organization consisting of both working together with the single purpose of rendering service to the district where they are located. Maryville claims first place in Missouri in the success of its service and cooperation.

Every Tuesday evening at 7:30 a line of automobiles is seen in front of the college. Going into the building, you will find the attraction that draws the crowd. The Chamber of Commerce and the College teachers meet at the college for physical recreation. The Chamber of Commerce consists of ninety-eight per cent of the business men of the town, a majority of the men teachers at the college and many out of town residents.

Their usual program consists of 7:30 calisthenic exercises, 9 o'clock contests in volley ball and at 10:00 basket ball practice begins. For these games the young and the younger, (all older men become young here) the business and college men are placed in mixed groups. In this work all become acquainted, not the formal acquaintance, but the acquaintance that comes only by team work. The men do not go into intensive team work or training but play only for diversion and make the program to please the majority of the crowd.

Monday evening of each week is set aside for luncheon and a good social time. Here the members of the S. T. C. Chamber of Commerce, Farm Bureau officials or anyone else that desires to be there may attend. A short time is spent in talking, listening to a few speeches and singing a few songs. After spending from fifteen to thirty minutes discussing things of community interest and welfare, they go their clubrooms and there transact any business or continue the discussion of any important matter on hand. Everyone is invited to the luncheon and club-room discussion.

During the year the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the college met in groups in the surrounding towns and communities becoming better acquainted with the people. Here also they advertised the service that the people were able to obtain at home. At many of the gatherings in addition to the social time that everyone enjoyed, noted speakers were obtained and these afforded another valuable source of information and entertainment.

The College is increasing its service as is shown by increased attendance, a greater number of correspondence students, a better and more extensive community service.

The Chamber of Commerce does not interfere with any other organization. It works for the good of the entire community, having in mind that the thing that will benefit Nodaway County will benefit all. Service is the keynote to the organization. Six hundred people were placed in positions by them last year. People call them to obtain information about the roads or to find out where a person lives.

The Chamber of Commerce advertised the Maryville S. T. C. twice in twenty-eight papers situated in nineteen counties in this district. The advertising was placed in the papers having the largest circulation. This is the first Chamber of Commerce advertising a college and the first college advertised in the state in this manner.

The membership fee is only ten dollars a year and anyone can become a member. Evidently it would be hard to find a better investment, for the membership not only helps the individual but his neighbor as well.

John M. Gild, Secretary of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce will be the speaker at their annual meeting April 12. This meeting will be at the college. Everyone is urged to attend. The other two annual meetings were held at the college, the girls of the college serving the meals. The Chamber of Commerce hopes to perpetuate this practice.

When a successful college and a successful Chamber of Commerce combine their physical and social activities breaking down the formal reserve of their own members and in addition securing the views of the citizens of the district in community meetings, then and only then can they obtain the cream of ideas and secure the necessary constructive criticism for their projects.

With this backing Nodaway County and the College district must grow. Keep this slogan in mind—

"WATCH MARYVILLE."

Eurekans Have Party.

Yes, it was a real line party that occurred Friday night, Feb. 4. Thirty-six Eurekans, with Mr. and Mrs. Miller as guests, enjoyed the show at the Empire theatre. The play, "Mary's Ankle," was just fun thru and thru and the Eurekans laughed heartily with the rest of the crowd.

After the show the bunch assembled at the Merchant's cafe where a two-course luncheon was served. They were seated at one long table which was attractively decorated with the Eureka colors of yale blue and white. Of course, everyone enjoyed the eats, but Luther DeMoss seemed hungrier than the rest. If you want to know why, you can ask Jessie Murphy.

The after dinner speeches led by Mr. Miller were very interesting and full of pep. The president was very diligent in seeing that everyone was called upon to speak and no one escaped. The jokes that were told provoked much merriment yet the Eurekans were very serious, too, and pledged themselves to be more loyal to the society and to keep faith with the ones who had labored before them.

The party dispersed about eleven o'clock with everyone feeling gay and happy and glad they were Eurekans.

The society wishes to tell the Bear Cats they did not forget to drink their health. Also, that a number of the society on their way home got news of the victory over Culver-Stockton and stopped on a street corner to give fifteen lusty rahs for the team.

Missouri Schools Need More Study of Art.

Missouri should follow the example set by California and have a State Art Conference. The following are among the recommendations recently adopted by the conference at the end of a two-day session: "That the fundamentals of art instruction should be taught to all pupils in the elementary schools, and special art courses be introduced in the seventh and eighth grades."

"That the State Board of Education appoint a committee to study the art institution in the elementary school, formulate minimum requirements for a course of study and suggest plans for furthering art education in the elementary schools of the state."

"That county or circuit art supervisors be employed to supervise those schools without art supervisors."

"That the minimum time devoted to art instruction in the elementary schools be two hours per week during the entire school year for eight years."

"That art instruction in the high schools be placed on an equality with other subjects in both time and credit allowed for its study."

"That in each high school of the state at least one full elective course in art be provided."

A resolution that one unit of art be required for graduation from the high school was passed by the art division at the State Teachers Association last year. The resolution was introduced by Miss DeLuce.

Judge Ben Lindsey, Denver's great judge of the juvenile court, who rarely sentences a boy to a reform school or to imprisonment of any sort, will speak in the Normal auditorium at Aberdeen, S. D.
